Home Accessibility Modification & Minor Home Repair Program

Research shows that most older adults want to live in their homes and communities for as long as possible. Aging at home brings with it many benefits—both to older adults and the communities in which they live. A longtime home is a place of comfort and memories—and can be a source of connections to family members, neighbors, friends, places of worship, community groups, familiar shops, and health providers.

However, most homes were not built to support the mobility, sensory, and cognitive changes that often accompany aging. As one ages, everyday tasks such as climbing the stairs, standing up in the shower, getting in and out of the bathtub, and reaching objects in kitchen cabinets or other places in the home can become more difficult.

The Housing Program offers home accessibility modifications and minor home repairs for seniors age 60+ and those with a disability at any age.
